

CANADIAN NAVAL REVIEW

VOLUME 14, NUMBER 4 (2019)

Theme Issue: The NSS at 10

Team Canada (Ships)
Sees the NSS Delivering Reflections on a
Decade of NSS
Naval Shipbuilding
Strategies in Australia,
Britain and Canada
Arctic Icebreaking
Operations and the NSS

Don't miss an issue!

CANADIAN NAVAL REVIEW

VOLUME 15, NUMBER 1 (2019)

Sailing to Byzantium:
A Eulogy to the Sea King

Third Base: The Case
for CFB Churchill

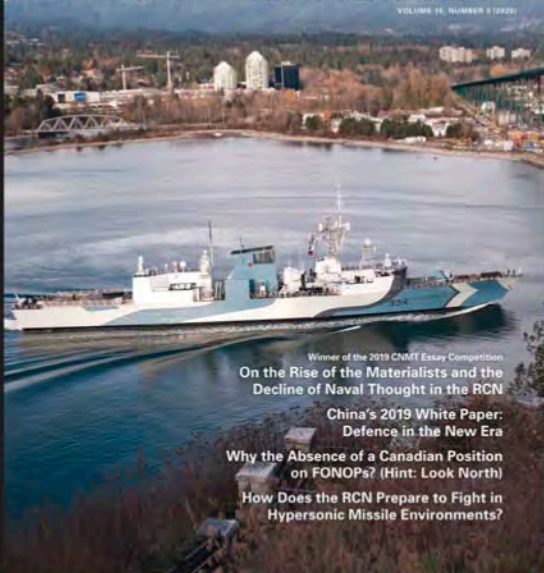

The Strategic
Contribution of the
Harry DeWolf-class
to Canadian Defence
and Security

Canada Concludes
Fourth Command
of CTF 150

CANADIAN NAVAL REVIEW

VOLUME 16, NUMBER 3 (2020)

Winner of the 2019 CNMT Essay Competition:
On the Rise of the Materialists and the Decline of Naval Thought in the RCN

China's 2019 White Paper:
Defence in the New Era

Why the Absence of a Canadian Position
on FONOPs? (Hint: Look North)

How Does the RCN Prepare to Fight in Hypersonic Missile Environments?

CANADIAN NAVAL REVIEW

VOLUME 14, NUMBER 3 (2019)

Winner of the 2018 CNMT Essay Competition
The Case for Canadian Naval Ballistic Missile Defence

Mahan and Understanding the Future of Naval Competition
in the Arctic Ocean

China's Arctic Policy and its Potential Impact on Canada's Arctic Security

Technology and Growth:
The RCN During the Battle of the Atlantic

CANADIAN NAVAL REVIEW

VOLUME 15, NUMBER 2 (2019)

Voyage of Xue Long
in the Northwest
Passage 2017

Bolstering Community-
Based Marine
Capabilities in the Canadian Arctic

China's Mahanian
Arctic Ambitions:
Second Thoughts

A Surface Presence
for the US Navy
in the Arctic?

HMCS Regina, sporting a commemorative camouflage paint scheme, fires a rare salvo of two Harpoon anti-ship missiles against the decommissioned amphibious cargo ship ex-USS Durham (LKA 114) during RIMPAC 2020 off the Hawaiian coast.

Credit: MS Dan Bard, Canadian Forces Combat Camera